Message from President Nicki L. Will

I would like to wish everyone a happy, healthy and prosperous New Year.

It has been an honor to serve as the President of the Key West Chamber of Commerce in 2015. I look forward to 2016 and serving the members of the chamber for another year as President.

I would like to reflect for a moment on the 2015 awardees of the Key West Chamber. Each year the chamber recognizes individuals or businesses in our community for outstanding achievements. As I was preparing for the awards luncheon I was able to comprehend and appreciate the many contributions to our business and civic community over the past year. The chamber is also proud to provide a venue for special awards recognition for the City Employee, Police Officer and Firefighter of the Year as well as the Military Affairs Committee Military Appreciation Awards.

Our “Key West Stars” Joyce Benavides and Jack Niles, III, two individuals that give tirelessly and selflessly to the community of themselves and their resources year after year.

To the awardees of the “Business for Beauty” including The Keys Collection of the Fairfield Inn & Suites and The Gates Key West, Re/Max Keys

Investment, improvement and enterprise. At its Dec. 16th awards luncheon, the Key West Chamber of Commerce celebrated all three qualities, honoring the people and projects that made Key West better in the past year.

Two individuals were introduced as Key West Stars for their volunteer efforts and tireless commitment to their community.

Joyce Benavides, who works with the Key West Chamber, Rotary, Silverliners and a host of other organizations, was honored as a Key West Star, along with Jack Niles III, whose name is synonymous with Key West baseball and youth athletics in general.

Five resorts were renovated or newly built, a restaurant returned and a real estate company restored a historic Old Town home.

Key West Chamber of Commerce President Nicki Will presented the organization’s Business for Beauty awards to seven local businesses.

“The Chamber’s Business for Beauty Award is presented for capital projects or extensive renovations that add to the beauty of Key West,” Will said during the luncheon at the Casa Marina Resort.

The La Concha Hotel & Spa was honored after renovating its guest rooms and installed a brand new spa at the towering “Top” of one of the island’s tallest buildings. The Marker Resort at the Historic Seaport represented the first newly constructed hotel in Old Town in more than 20 years and did so with a stunning palette of blue and white décor. The Saint Hotel added romance during the complete renovation of the former Southern Cross Motel, while The Gates Hotel and Fairfield Inn & Suites vastly improved the aesthetics

Joe Caso had been advising business owners and chief executives long before the title was on his business card.

The New Jersey native has a varied business background that includes large, national public accounting firms, professional recruitment for C-level executives and high-level sales and marketing.

“I eventually realized that I had been doing business advising work for years; decades even; without calling it that or billing for it,” said Caso, who started vacationing in Key West 18 years ago with his wife, Cheryl.

“We’d come down every winter for three or four weeks, and always loved it,” Caso said, adding that they bought a home here four years ago, but still only spent a month or so in Key West each year.

“We’d stay for a month or so and rent our house out the rest of the year,” he said.

That worked well for the couple until this past September, when they decided to make Key West their permanent residence.

“Now we’re here full time and year round,” said Caso. “‘Retired’ isn’t even in my vocabulary, and I can truly do my job anywhere. I have clients in New York, New Jersey, California, Florida and other states.”

As soon as the couple became full-time residents, “I was immediately introduced to Virginia Panico and the Key West Chamber of Commerce. She’s certainly a mover and a shaker and the next thing I knew I was on the chamber’s Economic Affairs Committee.”

Before launching his own independent business advisement firm, Caso had been working for Lincoln Financial.

“My job there was to help the company’s top producers grow their own businesses and bottom line,” he said. “And when I left Lincoln, several of my guys called and asked if I would continue advising them on their goals, objectives and strategies.”

“They said, ‘I’ll pay you to do it, obviously,’” Caso said.

And his new business was born.

“The industry of my clients doesn’t matter,” said Caso, who emphasized his hands-on approach to advising and consulting.

His client list includes doctors, lawyers, construction executives, a wallpaper manufacturer and several others.

“I usually work with owners, principles and/or CEOs, because believe it or not, they usually have the least number of people they can talk to.”

Objective and effective feedback is rare in the corporate world, where most people have their own agenda. Or they’ll only tell the boss what they think he or she wants to hear, Caso said.

“So I become their own little board of advisors for that owner or CEO,” he said, ticking off areas in which he can help, such as human resources, strategy, business plans, expansion, growth and goals.

Caso summed up his skills and approach by saying, “I help people create and define their goals for their business. They need someone objective to come in and help them achieve their goals. I help them determine the predictors of success that will help them reach that goal. And finally, I help them carve out the time to actually do the activities that we determine will be the most impactful to reach their goals.”

Business advising represents about 90 percent of Caso’s services. The other 10 percent is spent on what he calls “transition coaching.”

“People come to me when they don’t know what they want to do next in their career,” he said.

“But if you’re an accountant and you want to find another accounting job, that’s not me. I’ll refer you to an agency or a career building website.”

Though he’s currently in the process of updating his website, Caso can still be reached without calling it that or billing for it,” said Caso, who emphasized his hands-on approach to advising and consulting.

The chamber also recognized the return of Taco Bell to the boulevard, where new owner Jamey Luinh gutted the entire building and updated the eatery, to the delight of hungry residents. And Realtor Curtis Skomp meticulously restored the former Heritage House Museum on Caroline Street to use as his Re/Max Keys Connection office.

Will thanked and congratulated each business representative for their innovation and improvement. She then presented local restaurateur Joe Walsh and his partner George Esbensen with the Chamber’s Venture Award for the new Waterfront Brewery at the Historic Seaport, which converted a vacant former grocery store into a sprawling brewery and waterfront restaurant.

“Venture Awards recognize bold investment in a new business or enterprise that exemplifies the entrepreneurial spirit and adds to the Key West atmosphere,” Will said.

The chamber gave special recognition to the newly unveiled Key West Vietnam Living Memorial and Veterans Memorial Garden at Bayview Park. The monument pays tribute to Vietnam veterans who are from or lived in Key West during the conflict.

The memorial also remembers each branch of the military and its impact on Key West.

The chamber’s luncheon also included tributes to local military personnel who volunteer their time within the community they have adopted as their own hometown, for as long as they’re stationed here.

Each branch of the military that’s represented in Key West nominated one of their own to receive a Military Volunteer Award from the Military Affairs Committee.

“In addition to their full-time duties on a military base, these individuals coach local kids, build houses for Habitat, work with MARC clients, ring bells for the Salvation Army kettles, prepare income taxes for elderly residents and clean up local shorelines,” Phil Goodman told the audience before introducing the military officers who each announced their nominee for the Military Volunteer Awards.

The U.S. Navy honored Colombian native Juliana Gomez. The U.S. Coast Guardsman commended Eric Kenerly, and the Army honored Sgt. 1st Class John Maninga, a decorated soldier and skilled instructor with the Army’s Special Forces and underwater school on Fleming Key.

And for those who never expected romance at a chamber luncheon, Key West Police Officer of the Year Thomas Clark brought a tear to several eyes as he proposed to his girlfriend after accepting the chamber’s award. (She said yes!)

And the Key West Chamber of Commerce wrapped up another successful year of people, places and projects.

Collection and owners Curtis and Mariana Skomp, The Marker Resort, The Saint Hotel, LaConcha Hotel & Spa and Taco Bell. These individuals or organizations are continuing to invest in our community and support the business and infrastructure of Key West.

The “Venture Award” to the Waterfront Brewery, for a group of businessmen including Joe Walsh and partner George Esbensen embarking on a new venture in our community; we all wish them much success. And finally recognizing the Vietnam Living Memorial Wall, a dream becoming a reality initiated by several local Key West citizen Veterans.

We have such a wonderful organization. Yes, we are a Chamber of Commerce, fueled by businesses, entrepreneurs, professional and so forth, but we are also an organization with a genuine love and interest in this community that we all call home. It is a tremendous feeling to be able to recognize individuals and businesses that through their employees and all their hard work we have an improved environment for not only our visitors but for ourselves.

The chamber is a mission driven organization. “The mission of the Greater Key West Chamber of Commerce is to serve its members and maintain and promote a viable economy for the businesses and working people of Key West.” I am here to continue to work for you as members of the chamber as are all members of the Board of Directors. I ask you to participate on one or more of the many committees of the chamber. I also encourage you to recruit new members to the chamber. Only working together can we accomplish our mission.

As we enter 2016 I look toward a year of opportunities as well as challenges. We have our microcosm in Key West to assess and address in 2016 with many challenges of our own. The year will also be an interesting political year with a presidential election as a focal point in our nation. We look forward to a great tourist season and a strong 2016.

Thank you for your continued support of the chamber. Please let me know how we may better serve you.
The Key West Chamber of Commerce presented Business for Beauty community improvement awards to: Jamey Luihn of Taco Bell; Abraham Cox of The Saint Hotel; Curtis and Mariana Skomp of Re/Max Keys Connection; Allison Diange of the Fairfield Inn & Suites; Lee Sheehan of The Gates Hotel and Curt Hartley of La Conch Hotel & Spa. The Business for Beauty awards honors renovations, restorations and entire replacement of local businesses that contribute to the betterment of Key West. (The Marker Resort also won a Business for Beauty Award, but was not pictured.)

Key West Chamber of Commerce President Nicki Will presented local restaurateurs Joe Walsh, center, and his partner George Esbensen with a Venture Award for bold investment in the future of Key West. Walsh and Esbensen made such an investment with the recent opening of the long-awaited Waterfront Brewery at the Historic Seaport.

Key West Chamber of Commerce President Nicki Will presented Joyce Benavides with the Key West Star award for her tireless volunteerism and involvement with the Chamber and the community at large. NOT PICTURED: Key West Chamber of Commerce President Nicki Will presented Jack Niles III with a Key West Star award at the Chamber’s Dec. 16th luncheon. Niles was recognized for his community service and to the Key West baseball programs and other youth athletics.

Passenger arrivals to Key West International Airport in November 2015 totaled 26,525. This is an increase of 14% when compared to November 2014.

Total passenger arrivals for the first eleven months of 2015 were 314,861. That is a 4.9% decrease over the same period in 2014. However, this is similar to the arrivals seen before Southwest, as our monthly arrivals closely mirrored 2012 for January thru May. Southwest flew from November 2012 to June 2014.

Losses from Air Tran & Cape Air have largely been picked up by American & Silver, with Delta & US Air contributing.

A total of 73,579 cruise ship passengers disembarked in Key West during November 2015. This was 13.2% higher than November 2014, which saw 65,022 passengers disembark.

For the eleven months of 2015, cruise ship arrivals saw 641,677 passengers disembark from 266 port calls. While port calls are down 6.7% so far for 2015, passenger counts are down 7.8% over the same period in 2014.

Preparing for our 2016 Wage and Benefit Survey!

Please fill out your Wage and Benefit Survey when it arrives in your inbox!
We look forward to your responses and sharing the consolidated Wage & Benefit Survey information with you.

As an Employer in Key West, and the Florida Keys, you face many challenges in hiring and retaining qualified employees. You have the responsibility to balance viable compensation packages to retain qualified employees along with the necessity of maintaining your budget. The Key West Chamber of Commerce developed our annual Wage and Benefit Survey to provide our members with a tool to view the Key West employment market in terms of average wage levels by industry, specific job class, benefit standards and general turnover rate.

FAQs

What information is collected? We collect information on standard work weeks, paid time off (holidays, sick, floating and vacation days), benefits (qualifications, covered persons, health, dental, vision, disability, life, AD&D, retirement plans, tuition assistance & development, memberships, and housing) and compensation (current, raises & bonuses). Base pay, commissions and tips are collected for each position. Information is gathered for all positions across an array of job categories, from controllers to waitresses to pilots. The Chamber wants to gather as much raw data as possible in order to aggregate the data into a useful tool for local businesses.

Is my shared information kept confidential? Absolutely! The only person in the Chamber that has access to your submitted information is the Director of Research. Your organization’s specific data will never be shared with anyone, at any time, for any reason.

Why is my participation important? The Chamber strives to have meaningful final numbers that participants can use to manage their workforces effectively. More participants lead to more accurate and meaningful results. All participants receive a complimentary copy of the completed Wage & Benefit Survey report. Reports are available to non-participating members for a charge.

What does the final report include? The final report is a 40 page, bound document that summarizes the area’s wages and benefits by business sector. It also includes a breakdown of hourly wages for every position reported; this breakdown includes the lowest, highest, mean, median, first quartile, third quartile and annualized mean amount for each position.

How will the final Wage and Benefit report benefit me? The final report will let you know how your organization measures up against other organizations, as a whole and by position. With this report you can compare where your organization’s wages are relative to similar positions locally. This is a useful management tool for hiring and retaining employees. Additionally if your organization is a corporate subsidiary, branch or franchise, you may use the survey results to relay and justify higher local labor costs to your company’s corporate office. If your corporate office will be responsible for filling out the survey, please let them know that it will be coming out shortly.
Key West Chamber of Commerce Honors Police Officer of the Year

Thomas Clark

In just three years with the Key West Police Department, Officer Thomas Clark has demonstrated his dedication to the department and his commitment to the community.

Clark, a retired U.S. Marine, is a Florida native who serves as one of the city's quality-of-life officers, trained to deal with the city's homeless residents in a respectful and dignified manner that benefits the individual and the city.

“Officer Clark is constantly working to better serve the community,” city spokeswoman Alyson Crean wrote in her nomination of Clark.

Crean highlighted one of several specific incidents that make Clark stand out as an exemplary police officer. “His dedicated professionalism was evident in a November incident in which Officer Clark pulled a woman out of harm's way and jumped into a rolling car to stop it, preventing serious injury and property damage,” Crean wrote, adding that Officer Clark's “job performance is impeccable.”

Officer Thomas Clark is a professional example of a community police officer and the Key West Chamber extends its gratitude for Clark's unwavering commitment to Key West, its residents, visitors and businesses.

Elisa Levy’s “Exceptional Customer Service Seminar” was just in time for the busy season!

Attendees at the December 17th event were taught easy-to-use tools to "wow" every customer that walks through the door. They now understand what customers want and need from them, and how to turn an unhappy customer around in seconds.

The seminar applied tools to have a great attitude every day, and much more. If you missed out, don't worry we will have more seminars coming up in the future. We would like to hear from you also; let us know the seminar topics you would like to have presented.
